And the Winner Is...

By Jean Perry

We made it, everyone. We made to the day that marks the halfway hump of winter and with barely a scratch. It's Thursday, February 2, a significant day for us in these here parts.

Mild temperatures, minimal snow events ... perhaps I should stop there lest I jinx things.

Yes, Groundhog Day is here again, which means we have another winner of our annual Groundhog Day Cover Contest!

This year, The Wanderer received 11 entries, but one of them soared above the rest when it came to total online votes.

Izzy Feeney of Marion got the most online votes with her rendition of a top-hatted groundhog popping up from what appears to be, dare we say it, a hole in the snowy landscape!

Still, the sky looks blue enough to call it a gorgeous mid-winter day, and the groundhog has what appears to be a smile on his face as he searches for his shadow (which we hope he doesn't see today).

So, could this be a good omen? We hope so.

Thank you Izzy, and thank you to all the entrants with their fantastic creative covers!

Happy Groundhog Day, Tri-Town! Here's hoping for an early spring!

Observing Groundhog Day

By George B. Emmons

Tired of paying heating bills and driving on slippery roads? You must be ready to welcome the arrival of mid-winter with a Groundhog Day prediction of an early spring.

The first official awakening ceremony was celebrated in Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania, in 1887 with a groundhog by the name of 'Phil' as inaugural bearer of bad news if he saw his shadow.

Today, performance of this seasonal ritual links us in history to old world ancient mythology of the Pagans that later came to be known as 'Imbolc,' which they called the first day of spring.

This ritual was later combined and Christianized to become the religious feast festival commemorating the presentation of Jesus at the holy temple in Jerusalem.

Selection of a groundhog as 'solar mammal' indigenous to their fields by agricultural Amish farmers was appropriate. Coming out at dawn or dusk on a summer day from the realm of dark subterranean quarters, the groundhog is a standing sentinel like a living sundial whose regimen, much like that of humans, is somehow orchestrated on Earth by planetary cycles in tune with animated stations of the Zodiac.

No matter what the Sun Sign of your horoscope as the reader who may evaluate performance of pagan

Transportation Pilot Program Launched

By Marilou Newell

A major initiative that has long been discussed in community meetings throughout the state is how to provide better public transportation services to the people.

Certainly in larger cities and towns with concentrated population densities, providing public transportation is not only easier, it is necessary. But what about smaller communities, rural communities, and aging communities?

Legislators have studied such diverse concepts as pedestrian and bicycling pathways linking people with businesses and services, to ride sharing, to regional bus routes. Yet, when it comes to supporting motorized transportation solutions, money becomes the deciding factor.

Bedford was halted about two years ago due to a lack of ridership.

However, the notion of providing reliable, cost-effective transportation from Wareham to New Bedford along the Route 6 corridor is once again being proposed.

A pilot program will begin on February 6 sponsored by Southeastern Regional Transit Authority (SRTA) in partnership with the Greater Attleboro Taunton Regional Transit Authority (GATRA).

Funding was secured via grant submitted by GATRA. The pilot is for one year, and SRTA will operate the service.

An email sent to communities included in the pilot program from the office of Erik Rousseau, SRTA administrator in the New Bedford office, reads in part, "The service is slated to run Monday-Wednesday with two round trips in the morning and two round trips in the afternoon. This is a very exciting chance to link social services, businesses and the people of our collective communities to new employment and educational opportunities.

Mattapoissett Town Administrator Michael Gagne said, "SRTA community members have been talking about this, but due to limited Federal funds and different transportation districts, it has been difficult."

Wareham and Marion are serviced by GATRA while Fairhaven and Mattapoissett fall under SRTA, he said. Gagne said that for Mattapoissett residents, it might mean easier access not only to neighboring towns but also to Boston.

"You can leave your car at the park and ride on North Street and, if you're not in a hurry, use public transportation all the way to Logan."

He said that, although it might not be the fastest way to travel to Boston, it did eliminate the problem of where to leave one's car.

"There will be two ways to get to Boston now – either by taking the bus to New Bedford and connecting to other services from there, or taking the bus to Wareham and connecting there," Gagne said.

While riders may hail a pick-up or request drop-off along Route 6, there will also be regular stops. Departing from New Bedford, the bus will make scheduled stops at the Southcoast Health Center in Fairhaven, Shaw's Supermarket/Greater New Bedford Health Center in Wareham, Wareham Town Hall/Multi-service Center, and Cranberry Plaza.

Riders will pay $1.50, seniors $0.75, and children under six years of age will ride for free. Hours of operation will be Monday through Wednesday from 7:30 am through 6:00 pm with two round trips.

RMS Gives "Celebration of Positive Character"

By Jean Perry

There's a movement happening at Rochester Memorial School and it all boils down to five words, five principles: cooperation, assertiveness, responsibility, empathy, and self-control.

RMS C.A.R.E.S. is the new motto at the school, and on January 26 fourth grade students spread the word on a grand scale through music and drama during a show appropriately entitled, "RMS C.A.R.E.S., A Celebration of Positive Character."

"We are the ones who build our character," students on the stage declared. "Each of us has the power to think..." The power to create who we are, what we do, and what we will become.

"I build my character, I am the architect!"

Each class took turns presenting one of the letters of the C.A.R.E.S. acronym, with short films made by the students punctuating each part of the show.

Positive messages abounded, and the students in the audience – especially the wee ones up front – responded with smiles, applause, and their undivided attention.

"Every time we do something, we make a difference."

"Making a difference is something everyone can do."

The messages of integrity and respect echoed throughout the cafetorium in song and in action – even with a little bit of break dancing and while busting a move.

With cooperation, working together, the students exclaimed that anything could be accomplished when you join in unity with others.

Assertiveness is key when it comes to standing up for yourself and others, sang the students.

Being responsible, the students showed, is knowing what to do and doing it right away, helping to make the world a better place; owning up to your mistakes and accepting the consequences to our actions; fairness, honesty, respect, compassion, and humility.

Empathy, showing care through kind words and understanding the feelings of others, said the students, is the change that starts with you.

Self-control in the most challenging of situations, whether on the bus, at all-school meetings, and during

While each department they met with on this night had its own narrative to supplement spreadsheets, there were a couple of reoccurring themes: succession planning and the use of technology.

From Brenda Herbeck, treasurer and tax collector, the committee members learned that a new software package is in the process of being launched that will allow municipal employees online viewing and interactive functions related to healthcare coverage and retirement planning.

"Hopefully, they'll be more aware of their benefits," Herbeck said.

Gagne added that, by giving employees easier and more timely access to healthcare information, the employee would be able to answer their own questions versus calling the one person in town hall currently designated to oversee all matters related to insurance coverage.

"This single staff member is inundated daily and unable to do other things," Gagne said.

With the new portal from Mass Mutual, employees will have real-time answers to their questions.

Herbeck also said that improvements had been made to online tax payments. She explained that an earlier version only allowed bills to be paid online within the 30-day grace period. Now, tax bills may be paid after the due date as the system will update interest to outstanding bills every 24 hours.

Regarding the treasurer/tax collector's office, the FY18 budget is pegged at $225,725, just over $3,000 from FY17. The increase is primarily due to contractual increases.

Up the corridor from the tax office, Kathleen Costello, administer of assessing, is also pleased with technology that has aided in making complex issues more easily understood by property owners.

Costello lauded the efforts of staff member Nick Nelson, whose role as data collector and GIS coordinator has brought the department into the 21st century.

"We are able to do everything consistently for the resident," she said. With uniformity in the process of evaluating properties, Costello continued, abatements are declining.

Costello pointed to the fact that during her first year in Mattapoisett, abatements ran as high as 200. Now she said, "We've done twenty-two in spite of property values skyrocketing."

"An educated taxpayer is one who isn't going to try and seek an abatement.... People like the GIS system," she said.

On the theme of succession planning, Costello said that Mia Robinson, formerly of the tax collector's office, has been able to come up to speed very quickly in the assessor's office. Robinson will be pursuing certification through MAAO and will be in-line to replace Costello when she retires.

Gagne said that the selectmen have come to appreciate the importance of identifying those municipal employees who show interest and aptitude in advancing their careers. This allows the junior staff members to train under the tutelage of senior staff members for greater continuity in service to the community.

Of the GIS system, Costello said that in the coming months the council of aging, water and sewer, safety personnel and building department will all be trained and using the GIS system. Costello did not present a spreadsheet.

From the town hall's second floor, Director of Inspectional Services Andy Bobola shared big changes coming to his department.

"The biggest change," Bobola said, "is the ninth edition of the Massachusetts State Building Code." He said the updated code and standards manual is a mandated document and that this edition makes significant changes in the areas of plumbing, framing structures located in flood zones, and a new energy code.

Bobola said that the new code would affect every segment of his department including administrative staff members.

Bobola said he is just starting with the GIS system, but that the system will be critical to online permitting that he sees coming in the near future.

Bobola and Gagne discussed the development of a video library that could be accessed on the town's website; the videos would help property owners understand the permitting process and the importance of inspectional services for the safety of their homes.

"The more we educate the public, the better," Gagne said.

The building department is also looking to provide professional development opportunities to its staff members with Bobola saying Robin Shufelt has excelled in the transition to the GIS program.

Bobola said Shufelt is advancing in her duties towards becoming the administrative assistant to the inspectional services department. He also applauded Mary Lynch for the work she is doing.

Bobola said that a new part-time inspector in Gagne also shared his appreciation for the work done by the zoning board of appeals that Bobola directly assists. Gagne said, "I think they've done a great job, especially with some of the large contentious hearings ... keeping them civil."

Bobola's spreadsheet also shows an increase of approximately $27,488 over FY17, primarily reflective of increases in training, conferences, in-state travel, and contractual commitments.

A stone's throw away up Church Street, the council on aging continues to see greater demand for services.

presented a summary of activities and a spreadsheet of expenses associated with providing a myriad of services to the town's aging population.

And, given the sheer volume of people reaching out to the COA for assistance in areas such as tax and Medicare information, medical rides, social services, enrichment programs, shopping trips, and medical equipment, Coucci is concerned about staffing.

"The census showed in 2016 that thirty-five percent of Mattapoisett residents were sixty years of age or older," Coucci said. "We are serving just over a third of the population." She continued, "The 2020 projections show Mattapoisett ahead of all other communities in Plymouth County," in terms of aging residents she added.

Given this, Coucci said being able to provide continuity in services was critical.

"I'm just one person," she stated.

In the narrative she provided, Coucci wrote, "... [S]hould there be an unexpected absence, having someone available to serve full-time will enable responsibilities to be rendered without concern."

She asked that the committee consider increasing the number of hours the part-time administrative coordinator works by adding five hours per week, making that position full-time. Gagne said that a review of that position would be forthcoming.

In spite of requesting more hours for a staff member and contractual agreements, the COA budget

Town House Committee Sticks By Its Plan

Marion Town House Building Committee

By Marilou Newell and Jean Perry

First there was a forum, and then a vote on which road to take. Ultimately, with a unanimous vote, Bob Raymond and the members of the Marion Town House Building Committee chose Option 3A to present to selectmen as their recommendation.

The committee had high hopes that the January 26 public forum would result in the community reaching a consensus on what to do about the aging town house.

During the forum, Raymond presented five options crafted with the assistance of architects Turowski2, construction management company PM&C, and the members of the Town House Building Committee.

Before launching into the details of each plan, however, Raymond explained the difference between "hard costs" and "soft costs." Hard costs, he said, were the 'bricks and mortar' plus contractor mark-ups that represent 70 percent of the total. Soft costs were "everything else," he explained.

The everything else category represented such items as furniture, telephone and data needs, environmental studies, hazmat surveys, and a litany of miscellaneous must-haves.

Option 1 is the complete renovation of the town house. This includes 17,559 square feet over three stories with 1,050 square feet of meeting space.

Meeting space would become a bone of contention as the evening went on. This plan is estimated at $11,991,393 or $682 per square-foot.

Option 2 would require construction at two town-owned properties: the town house and the Atlantis Drive facility.

This option includes renovations of 10,980 square feet in the town house and 3,400 square feet at Atlantis Drive, currently the home of the Recreation and Facilities Departments.

In this concept, there are two meeting spaces – one being 375 square feet and the other 855 square feet. The combined estimate for this plan is $8,553,939, or $594 per square-foot.

Option 3 includes town house renovations and the construction of an addition for 13,015 square feet of improvements, with two meeting spaces – a 60-seat space at 996 square feet and another 371 square-foot space with 24 seats.

Costs are estimated at $9,629,460 or $739 square feet.

Option 3A is a stripped-down version of Option

3 with the deletion of the 996 square-foot meeting space. That would bring the project estimate down to $8,109,495, or $722 per square foot.

Then came the wild card: the former VFW property.

Option 4 would be a new building on this recently acquired site – a 13,000 square-foot structure with 850 square feet of meeting space. Cost estimates came in at $9,140,613, or $703 per square-foot. However, Raymond said that this option had not been fully vetted.

Before closing out his presentation and opening the meeting up to full public participation, although there had been questions along the way regarding space needs for each of the 18 town employees currently housed in the town house and the amount of meeting space actually required, Raymond shared the results of a survey that had been mailed out with the census forms.

The survey asked the question, "Do you want to renovate the house" or "Do you want to build new at the VFW?"

The results from approximately 851 respondents were 55 percent for fixing the town house and 41 percent for building new at the six-acre VFW site.

Several residents argued that the survey was flawed and should not be used to gauge public sentiment. One resident asked why only one survey had been sent per household instead of one per registered voter. The validity of the survey in calculable results came into question by many.

Resident Joe McDonough voiced his concerns that all the cost estimates were too high. He said that a recent project in Foxboro had come in at $449 per square foot and had had nine bidders.

In defense of their cost assumption, Raymond said, "We've been studying this for five years." He attempted to explain the rationale employed by PM&C, who did the cost analysis, but many in attendance wanted more information and more study.

John Waterman asked, "How many square feet do we really need for only 18 employees ... we need to step back..."

House Building Committee, said, "I think we made a lot of progress preserving government in that building. It's something I'd like to see."

Saltonstall shared that on a recent cross-country road trip, he had witnessed the sad impact on town centers that had been abandoned.

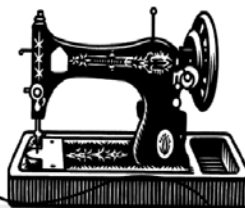

"The center of town is the compact village, library, and the town house.... It's worth preserving ... to keep the village viable and unique," he said.

Anthony Days said, "I'm in favor of keeping the charm, not letting the town house go to condos."

Raymond commented that it was uncertain the town could even sell the town house. He said that similar structures in Fairhaven were for sale with no takers.

Town Administrator Paul Dawson said, "The best decision would be a building re-use plan." He did concede that, if the town house sold, it might generate tax revenue.

Dawson was asked if the VFW property had a deed restriction that prohibited its use for anything other than a council on aging location. He confirmed there was not a restriction, but that the town had accepted the gift in good faith that it would be used for that purpose.

Planning Board Chairman Rob Lane was in favor of evaluating a new building option.

Alan Minard, Finance Committee chairman said, "What we're missing here is study of a new building, a whole new way. If we could do that, we could go to town meeting with another option."

Former selectman John Henry rose to speak: "When all this began a long time ago, I was in favor of a new building in the ball field." He said that suggestion had been met with disapproval but that now, with the VFW acreage, ball fields could be placed there and possibly the ball field beside Sippican School could again be considered.

"I would put the VFW off limits, keep the [town government] buildings all together," Henry said. "It's morally dishonest not to fully cost and evaluate the new building option," Henry said.

Directing his final comment to Raymond, Henry said of the current options, "You're likely to go down in flames at town meeting."

For nearly three hours they debated the merits of the options, they debated whether the cost estimates were accurate, and they appreciated the work done by the committee, but ultimately the majority wanted additional study.

Raymond thanked everyone for their honest exchanges saying, "It's time to fish or cut bait."

Then on January 31, the committee voted to recommend Option 3A to the Board of Selectmen next week, despite some public cries to explore a new building construction at the VFW property.

Option 3A at 11,225 square feet is almost half the size of the current town house square footage of 21,380. Unlike Option 3, Option 3A excludes a 996 square-foot conference room for meetings; however, the committee felt it could return to Town Meeting at a later time with an article for an addition, should the Board of Selectmen prefer.

Raymond was concerned about the timing of the next Board of Selectmen meeting on February 7 because the Capital Improvement Committee gave the MTHBC a deadline of February 3 to submit a form for the amount it would be requesting for the next phase of the town house project.

"We're running out of time to get on the [town meeting] warrant," said Raymond.

Raymond suggested that the board submit a draft provisional form to the Capital Improvement Committee and hope that the selectmen take the MTHBC's recommendation.

The Option 3A total estimated cost is $8.1 million.

The committee wants to push for support by highlighting the cultural and historical value of keeping its historic town house in the village, while making the building just as efficient and cost-effective as a new building could be.

There's no way this building could be more efficient than a new building, said Raymond, "But we are arguing that it's as efficient."

You might be able to knock off a million dollars with a new building, the committee agreed, but that

Abutter Complaints for Wellspring Continue

Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals

By Jean Perry

Nearly two and a half months after the Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals issued a commercial permit to Wellspring Farms at 42 Hiller Road, complaints from neighbors continue as one abutter claims Wellspring owners Jim and Holly Vogel are in violation of some of the eight ZBA conditions placed on the approval.

In a letter to the ZBA, Kathy Mendoza of 32 Hiller Road alleged that the Vogels are in violation of a number of conditions, including but not limited to matters concerning idling vehicles, lighting, and ingress and egress sites.

Mendoza claims that even after conditions were placed to stop cars at the property from idling, vehicles, sometimes up to four cars, says Mendoza, sit idling for 35 to 40 minutes at a time.

ZBA Chairman Richard Cutler broke from reading the letter aloud during the board's January 26 meeting to say that the Vogels have been made aware of this issue and will be posting signs to inform visitors that engines must be turned off while parked.

Continuing with the letter, Cutler read the further complaints Mendoza made against the mental and behavioral therapy and hippotherapy center.

Mendoza said the established hours of operation were not being followed, saying that barn hands and assistants sometimes arrived before 6:00 am on weekends and used equipment as well.

Mendoza also welcomed the board to come inspect the fencing along the property line, which Cutler said Building Commissioner Jim Buckles would also attend.

Furthermore, Mendoza alleged that lighting in the parking lot often resembled the LaSalette shrine during Christmas time.

"We had said there is to be no additional lighting as far as I'm concerned," said Cutler. "If this is true, I'm not sure what this is."

Another condition was that the Vogels would have to file with the Planning Board for a site plan review within 90 days, which was a matter of discussion that night between the ZBA and Planning Board Chairman Arnold Johnson.

Johnson was asked to attend to clarify the Planning Board process the Vogels would be undertaking, because whether the Vogels had complied with the condition that they file within 90 days of the permit issuance with the Planning Board was in question.

No application has been formally filed with the Planning Board, but on November 29, Johnson said that the Vogels met with all interested town departments for a technical review, and later with the Planning Board for an informal meeting. This meeting, although it does not constitute a filing, is a mandatory part of the site plan review process, said Johnson.

"If they do a filing before the first two [meetings], it's an automatic denial," said Johnson.

The Planning Board site plan review will mostly be concerned with matters such as traffic flow, drainage, and parking, and not with some matters that are alleged issues for abutters.

Johnson said he attended a site walk on both the Wellspring property and the Mendoza property, saying, "Both sides tried to throw more stuff in the mix, and I kept pushing and saying 'no'" said Johnson.

Another abutter of Wellspring Farm is slated for the Planning Board agenda on February 14.

Cutler asked Johnson straight out if he thought that the Vogels might have been confused by the condition mandating the 90-day deadline for filing with the Planning Board, and Johnson said there was no confusion voiced by the Vogels.

"My question was, when you guys set those conditions, did you understand [the Planning Board] process?" Johnson asked.

As for Mendoza's complaints, Johnson said there was nothing the Planning Board could do until the Vogels file their site plan review application.

The next meeting of the Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals is scheduled for February 9 at 7:00 pm at the Rochester Town Hall.

Accessory Apartment Under Consideration

Marion Zoning Board of Appeals

By Jean Perry

Marion Zoning Board of Appeals matters on January 26 took a turn away from the more contentious for a while to focus on a special permit application for an accessory apartment that appears, so far, to fall under the bylaw as allowable.

William and Jaqueline Scharnick of 82 Main Street hope to renovate their basement and garage to provide a living space for their daughter who is currently living in Texas.

Architect Anthi Frangiadis gave the details on the walk-out basement floor plan and renovation plans for a one-bedroom, one-bathroom apartment with a small kitchen area.

The apartment is slated for 610 square feet.

Chairman Marc Leblanc wanted to be sure the Scharnicks had no intention to rent the apartment in the future, to which they responded 'no.'

The board deemed the conversion to be not out of character with the neighborhood, given that two nearby houses were already classified as multi-family.

The board unanimously approved the special permit.

The public hearing for a conversion of a one-family to a two-family for 418 Point Road Trust at 418 Point Road was continued again at the applicant's request

ConCom Says Lawyer at Fault for Violation

Marion Conservation Commission

By Jean Perry

The Marion Conservation Commission on January 25 deemed homeowner Bryan Beakes not at fault for building a fence through a wetland on his property since his real estate attorney never informed him of an existing continuing order to not perform work in the area in question.

Rather, the commission found the attorney who performed the title search at fault for "not flipping to the second page" to read the continuing order.

Chairman Cynthia Callow said the commission went out to inspect the site and now believe that Beakes wasn't properly informed about the wetlands order.

"He didn't know," said Callow. "All kinds of lawyers were involved in closing and opening and no one told him about the existing order of not to touch the wetlands."

Beakes said his family had moved down from Canada, and his realtor and attorneys were not local to Marion.

Beakes installed a 6-foot stockade fence across a wet area because it was imperative to enclose the back yard where his children play. One of his children, Beakes told the commission, is on the autism spectrum and the family had concerns about him running towards the woods surrounding the yard.

Some boulders that were placed to inhibit work inside that area were moved by Beakes, as recounted by commission member Norm Hills.

"It's not your fault," Hills stated. "The real fault lies with the lawyer who did the title search. This is something that we're gonna have to talk about ... with town counsel ... because this has become a problem – the ignorance of continuing conditions."

Callow said she thought the commission should start posting more information on the Conservation Commission website to better inform the public on such matters.

"In this case, yeah, it's a wetland, but I don't think anything would be gained by trying to recover it," said Hills.

The area of concern is less than 5,000 square feet, the commission noted.

"It's not worth pursuing," Callow said.

None of the commission members had any further questions or comments for Beakes.

"I think it's a mistake, an innocent mistake, and he'll know better next time," said Callow.

Hills added, looking to Beakes, "Feel free to jump on your lawyer."

locker rooms; practice came first, but they weren't planning on missing the fun.

Dressed in semi-formal attire, the 12th graders all made sure to take multiple pictures on their red carpet of the night in order to capture the moment forever. In addition to fundraising for their end-of-year events, this was a time for the class to put their school stress aside and begin to reflect on their previous years in this final semester.

Once everyone was seated in the school auditorium, English teachers and senior class advisors Michael Beson and Megan Hall began the ceremony by introducing senior Jon Kvilhaug as the night's emcee.

"This is one of our few opportunities we have to assemble and recognize ... each other," Kvilhaug said. His words set the tone for the event. No one was upset over losing; instead, it was time to celebrate what their classmates thought of them. Just being nominated was an accomplishment.

The first three awards won were for 'best hair,' going to Diana LaRock and Sam Henrie, 'best smile' was for Matt Dube and Madison Cristaldi, and 'best laugh' went to Beckett Kiernan and Ariane Dias.

Kiernan laughed twice at the urging and applause of his classmates, while Dias arrived late and accepted her award after intermission, saying to their amusement, "My laugh isn't funny. It really isn't. So ... ha."

Next was 'best dressed,' going to Noah Strawn

'Best personality' went to Tim Dix and Julia Barrett after a slip-up on announcing their names. Dix jokingly referred to the upcoming Super Bowl and said, "Go Falcons!" Barrett supported the audience's sentiments and replied, "No, just no."

'Most athletic' went to Landon Goguen and Olivia Labbe, which was followed by 'most musical' and its winners, Camryn Kidney and Maxx Wolski.

"I'd like to give a shout out to all my fans out there," Kidney thanked the audience.

After 'most artistic' went to Aubrie Isabelle and Noah Tavares, Kvilhaug excused himself from the podium.

"The academy thought it would be inappropriate to introduce myself for the four nominations I received," he laughed. Kvilhaug went on to win 'teacher's pet' along with Hannah Lafreniere.

'Most dramatic' went to Sara Achorn and Tim Schroeder, who thanked "the Academy and his parents," while 'most likely to succeed' went to Jacob Spevack and Hannah Guard, and 'best eyes' went to Madie Barber and Charlie Tirrell.

support the senior class ran. Class advisors Beson and Hall spoke about their students during this time as well.

"They're great," said Hall. "Honestly, it's been such a great class to work with, it's been really easy. Most of the things they come up with on their own ... I just advise."

"It's a good class," said Beson with a laugh. "It's a good night. It's a chance to see their actual personalities come out."

"I would like to thank Case Cancun, Five Guys, Red Robin, the school lunch, and everyone who doesn't eat their school lunch," Hopkins said.

'Most changed' went to Kurt Thompson and Emma Cadieux, while 'least changed' was given to Collin O'Malley and Erin Costa.

'Cutest couple' was voted Jacob Davis and Hannah Ribeiro, while 'cutest best friends' Jon Harris and Jacob Spevack drew an enthusiastic response from their classmates.

'Celebrity look alike' was one of the most widely debated awards over the voting period, but ultimately went to Danny Renwick (for Will Poulter) and Nicole Aguiar (for Corbin Bleu).

'Highway menace' went to Nick Galavotti and Riley Shaughnessy, and 'most accident prone' was given to Dylan McCoog and Emma Collins.

"I'd like to thank my ankles for this award," joked Collins.

The last five awards nicely wrapped up the night.

'Most likely to take over the world' was handed over to James Goulart and Camryn Kidney, and 'most school spirit' went to Matt Dube and Brooke Santos.

Tabor Hosts Photographer Celebrating Cultural Diversity

Tabor Academy Update

By Jack Gordon

Over the past week, members of the Tabor Academy community have noticed a new photographic exhibit in halls of the school's Charles Hayden Library. These photos are part of a project by professional photographer Mark Chester called "The Bay State: A Multicultural Landscape".

The display features a selection of the more than 400 photographs that Chester has captured as part of this project. The subjects are all newly naturalized citizens of the United States who come from over 180 of the world's 196 countries.

Chester chose to exclusively shoot in black and white for this exhibit, complementing the immense diversity showcased in the photographs. His goal for this project was to bring visibility to the tremendous cultural diversity and ethnic heritage that exists in the state of Massachusetts.

The exhibition will be on display in the Hayden Library until the end of the month, on February 28. This past Sunday, January 29, Mark Chester hosted a public presentation of his work in the Hayden Library. At the presentation, Chester showcased the project, shared the incredible stories of the individuals in the photographs, and spoke about his experiences creating the final product.

This photographic project benefited the Massachusetts Immigrant and Refugee Advocacy Coalition (MIRA). This coalition is, according to their website, "the largest organization in New England promoting the rights and integration of immigrants and refugees." The organization provides individuals and families access to the resources, training, and assistance

Tabor Academy is by no means the only location at which Chester's art has been displayed. The collection has traveled the state, visiting libraries, art centers, municipal buildings, colleges, and other public areas. The most notable exhibition space for the photographs has been the Massachusetts State House, where it was displayed throughout the month of November.

Mark Chester is based out of Woods Hole, Massachusetts, and has been a professional photographer since 1972. Several of his photographs are in the permanent collections of museums in major cities across the country, and his work has been featured in major museums and galleries in the United States, Europe, and Asia.

Additionally, his photographs and written pieces have been published in many major publications.

The exhibition began just days after a week-long celebration of Martin Luther King Jr. on Tabor's campus. The keynote speaker of the celebration was Rosetta Lee, a diversity speaker and trainer who works at Seattle Girls' School. On Thursday, January 19, Lee hosted a workshop with the entire Tabor community discussing identity, micro-aggressions, and tools for engaging when conflict arises.

Additionally, a host of other events were held to facilitate thought and discussion related to the celebration of the life and legacy of Martin Luther King Jr. These events included three nights of "Keeping it 100: A Storytelling Experience," an event that allowed community members a chance to tell their personal stories on the topic of race, socio-economics and class, and immigration.

Over the next month, Tabor students and faculty will pass through the library hundreds of times. Though all may not take the time to stop and reflect on the incredible works and the stories behind them, the photographs will no doubt serve as a reminder of the rich diversity that exists in the Tabor community, Massachusetts, and the United States.

Girls' Basketball Two Wins, One Week

ORR Sports Update

By Alexandra Hulsebosch

Here is a look at the Old Rochester Regional High School's sporting events from the previous week.

Boys' Basketball: Starting off the week, the Bulldogs beat their conference rivals, the Fairhaven Blue Devils, with a final score of 71-62. Russell Noonan was the leading scorer with 24 points, and not far off was Matt Valves with 21 points. However, many Bulldog players contributed to the team win over Fairhaven. In their second game of the week, the boys' basketball team lost to Bourne 66-67. The evenly matched teams battled throughout the game as ORR was looking to make a recovery from their previous loss in December. Seconds within the end of the game, the two teams were tied; however, Jacob Ashworth secured the Bourne victory by shooting a buzzer-beating layup. The Bulldogs were previously tied for first place in the SCC, but have since been demoted after their loss.

Girls' Basketball: The girls' basketball team also had a big win over Fairhaven this week, defeating Fairhaven 54-37. Senior captain Sophia Church was the leading scorer with 13 points, but not far off was Emma Collings with 12. During the second period, the Lady Bulldogs gained an 18-point lead, but it was soon followed by an eight-point run by the Blue Devils. ORR came to play in the second half, and with the help of a solid defense, they won the game. Last Friday, the girls' basketball team played Bourne at home and finished with a crucial victory of 55-36. This advances their overall record to 10-4. Church led the team contributing 15 points, which helped the Bulldogs qualify for the state tournament, and Collings scored 13 points, which was her personal best. Olivia Labbe and Mary Butler were not far behind scoring 8 and 7 points, respectively.

Boys' Ice Hockey: The boys' ice hockey team is having an incredible season with their 11th straight win over Bourne 5-0. Chase Cunningham had his fourth shutout of the season and so far has only let in two goals. Noah Strawn, who leads the team with goals this season, hit in two during this SCC matchup. Landon Goguen,

To the Editor:

My husband and I just built our first home, acting as General Contractors, on Dexter Road in Marion. We had such a wonderful experience working with the following departments and staff: Building Department, Fire Department, Water & Sewer Department, Assessors Office, etc. We wanted to send a huge thank you to all that were involved in our build. Everyone we dealt with was extremely professional and polite and worked in an amazingly timely manor. We thank you Town of Marion for making this huge home building process so much easier with all of your help! What a wonderful place to now call home.

*Thank you,
Jennifer & Scott Donahue*

MOVIE REVIEW

On the Road Again

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Moonlight*. Starring Trevante Rhodes and Naomie Harris. Directed by Barry Jenkins. Running time: 111 minutes. MPAA rating: R.

Roger Ebert, who I'm pretty sure would have loved Moonlight, had a recurring dictum: "A film is not about what it is about, but how it is about it." Uncle Roger would probably have said the same about the acclaimed, Oscar-nominated Moonlight, whose subject is an African-American man with three different names according to his level of growth. As a boy, he's nicknamed Little; as a teenager he assumes his given name, Chiron; as an adult he takes the nickname Black, given to him by a school friend with whom he was once intimate. The movie, a second feature by writer-director Barry Jenkins, is structured as a triptych, with each portion named after whatever Chiron is called.

Plotwise, some of Moonlight feels familiar. The child Little, afraid of his crackhead mama (Naomie Harris), begins to spend more and more time staying with a couple who look after him: Juan (Mahershala Ali) and Teresa (Janelle Monáe). The twist is that Juan is a crack dealer who supplies Little's mama. Eventually, as a man, Black goes into the same business, emulating the only male role model he ever knew. What's different about Moonlight is the contemplative, painterly treatment that Jenkins gives the material. One could never fairly call the movie melodramatic; at times its energy is surprisingly low.

I was held, though, by the naturalistic performances and by Jenkins' insistence on telling this story without flooding it with false emotion or incident. I imagine Juan could uncharitably be called "a crack dealer with a heart of gold," but Mahershala Ali makes him a complex man capable of threat as well as kindness. When the sullen, almost wordless Little, tormented by bullies, asks Juan "What's a faggot?", he answers "It's a word to make gay people feel bad about themselves." The irony, in a movie loaded with ironies, is that Little's schoolyard bullies may or may not be the ones calling him that, but his own mother does.

How Moonlight is about what it's about is with as little dialogue as possible, and with well-judged use of color throughout (cinematographer James Laxton can take a bow). Things happen, major things, in between the three segments. We fill in the blanks of a portrait of sadness that's not without hope. Nothing is made terribly explicit, nor is the movie particularly plot-centered. We follow Little as he becomes Chiron and then as he becomes Black; the changes in his character are presented as inevitable, unquestionable. Moonlight was shot fast, often on location in the same Miami projects where Jenkins grew up, yet it takes its time. It's not so much a riff as a becalmed tone poem.

Jenkins' handling of Chiron's sexuality is as quietly oblique as everything else in the film. Chiron has a moment with childhood friend Kevin, but then is never intimate with anyone else until he meets Kevin again as an adult. Is he gay? Bisexual? Just looking for any meaningful male attention? The movie lets us grapple with the ambiguities. Jenkins trusts silence and inertia; he doesn't move the camera needlessly — he also trusts composition and color. The achievement here is only possible in cinema, a story whose novelistic details are suggested by image and editing and what the filmmaker chooses to include and exclude. It is governed by a sure command of the medium that never insists on itself or bullies the audience. It's a shame Ebert didn't live to see it; he did, however, see Jenkins' 2008 feature debut Medicine for Melancholy, which he awarded three and a half stars, and praised Jenkins' "confidence to know the precise note he wants to strike." I'd say Uncle Roger called it.

The criteria for the WPI Dean's List differs from most other universities as WPI does not compute a grade point average (GPA). Instead, WPI defines the Dean's List by the amount of work completed at the A level in courses and projects.

Hannah Sullivan from Rochester has been named to the University of Delaware's Dean's List for the fall 2016 semester. To meet eligibility requirements for the Dean's List, a student must be enrolled full-time and earn a GPA of 3.33 or above (on a 4.0 scale) for the semester.

Brenna Maloney, a senior from Marion majoring in public health, was among 2,253 students at Coastal Carolina University who made the Fall 2016 Dean's List. To qualify for the Dean's List, freshmen must earn a 3.25 grade point average and upperclassmen must earn a 3.5 grade point average. To qualify for the President's List, students must earn a 4.0 grade point average. All students must be enrolled full time.

The following UMass Dartmouth students from the Tri-Town were named to the Chancellor's List in recognition of earning a fall 2016 semester grade point average of 3.8 or higher of a possible 4.0:

TriTown Happenings

The fourth-graders at Rochester Memorial School put on a presentation on Thursday, January 26, called RMS C.A.R.E.S. Each fourth grade class represented a word comprising the C.A.R.E.S. acronym: Cooperation, Assertiveness, Responsibility, Empathy, and Self-Control. The positive message was well received by the crowd, and the young students in the front rows definitely showed their enjoyment throughout the show. Photos by Jean Perry

On January 24, the Marion Natural History Museum's after-school group investigated different adaptations wild animals make to get through the winter months. We spoke about different types of food sources animals use, as well as their caches/larders and how to identify them in the field. We also had fun working on a bird feeder project to bring home. Next program is February 15 with the Nasketucket Bird Club. To see all our upcoming programs, please visit our website: www.marionmuseum.org. Under the supervision of art teacher Erin Kirk, the art students at Sippican School will exhibit a collection of works in the Marion Art Center's Patsy Francis (upstairs) Gallery from February 13-March 11. This show celebrates the immense talent of the Sippican School students and will include several works from each grade level, representing various subjects and mediums.

The Landmine Tragedy

Red Day at Sippican Elementary

By Ava Noone and Catie Parks

Landmines. They are gruesome, they are cruel, and they are killing over 15,000 people, including children, each year. In fact, according to unicef.org, an estimated 85% of children who are victims of landmines perish before arriving at the hospital. Landmines are explosive devices that are designed to blow when triggered by pressure or a tripwire. Landmines are typically laid just under or above the ground. These devices are extremely dangerous. For children, what seems like a fun toy could mean a painful death. Why? Because enemies in war-torn areas use these to severely injure or kill innocent civilians while trying to take over a territory. They are often disguised as colorful toys, referred to by many as "toys of death." There are an estimated 100,000 landmines still in the world, and some sixth graders from Sippican School wanted to do something about it after reading The Breadwinner by Deborah Ellis in reading class with teacher Mrs. Sinnott. This novel takes place in the war-struck country of Afghanistan, where landmines are a big issue. Sixth graders Marcus Pierre, Drew Marvel, Liam Houck, Henry Richards, and Sam Williamson organized a fundraiser for the ICBL, the International Organization to Ban Landmines. This organization works for a world free of landmines. On the day of the fundraiser in mid-December, students were asked to wear red and bring in a small donation. Together, just under $300 was raised for

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The changes you've waited to see in your work situation might not be happening quite as quickly as you'd hoped. Although the pace is slow, it's ongoing. Expect to hear news soon.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You should be feeling very proud of the fine effort you've made to get that important project done. Now take some time out to celebrate with family and friends. You've earned it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You're close to reaching your objectives. That's the good news. But be careful: Your aspects show lots of potential distractions looming. Stay focused and keep your eyes fixed on your goals.
CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Be careful not to let that suspicious Cancerian mind create a problem where none exists. What you might believe is an act of betrayal could be nothing more than a misunderstanding.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your Lion's heart overflows with self-confidence. All you need to do is tap into it, and you'll be able to handle any change that must be made regarding that recent surprise development.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) The need to watch what you say becomes increasingly crucial this week. Be as temperate as you can with your comments and avoid arguments for the sake of controversy.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A long-time family problem presents new demands. But this time, you won't have to go it alone: Someone else is asking to help share your responsibilities. Let it happen.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A period of feeling vulnerable is about to give way to a stronger, more self-confident aspect. Use this new strength to reaffirm promises you've made to others and yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A creative dilemma stalls your progress. Instead of letting it raise your ire, use the time to re-examine your aims and, perhaps, come up with a new target.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your nimble will finds a way for you to work out those newly emerged problems plaguing your new project. Stay with it. The results will be well worth your efforts.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You might feel overwhelmed at having to decide which new opportunity you should follow. Best advice: Check them all out and see which offers what you really want.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Continue to tread water before you even consider plunging into something that never seemed quite right. Some facts will soon emerge that can help you make a decision.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're a natural-born peacemaker. You value truth and have little patience with those who lie to you for their own purposes.

that the President will reverse years of environmental policies that will do irreparable damage to our country? Are you angry that President Trump has already, and will no doubt continue, to damage our image in our international community with his nationalistic, hawkish views? Are you concerned that President Trump's appointees will change the focus of the Supreme Court for years to come?

With the existing Republican Congress, many changes could happen unless people forcefully speak out against the actions and policies that are being proposed by President Trump. Why not begin to reject President's Trump's actions by gathering with the Mattapoisett Democratic Town Committee on Saturday, February 11 from 10:30 am - 12:00 pm at the Friends Meeting House Community Building at 103 Marion Road (Route 6).

The meeting is open to all and will concentrate on specific ways individuals and groups can make their voices heard.

Sippican Students Exhibit at the MAC

The Marion Art Center is delighted to announce the upcoming opening of two simultaneous gallery exhibitions, both to open on February 13. Under the supervision of art teacher Erin Kirk, the art students at Sippican School will exhibit a collection of works in the MAC's Patsy Francis (upstairs) Gallery from February 13 through March 11. This show celebrates the immense talent of the Sippican School students and will include several works from each grade level, representing various subjects and mediums. There will be a special opening reception at the Marion Art Center for the students and their parents after school on Monday, February 13, from 3:30 to 5:30 pm. The Sippican Elementary School art program emphasizes that learning to be an artist is much like learning a sport. Also from February 13 through March 11, artist Remmi Franklin will exhibit her works, Aerials and Abstracts, in the MAC's Cecil Clark Davis (first floor) Gallery. A special opening reception honoring the artist will be held at the Marion Art Center on Monday, February 13, from 6:00 to 8:00 pm. challenge those expectations and to induce the viewer to stretch their perceptions." In more recent years, she was inspired to start experimenting in using a wooden board as her canvas. "It felt like I was home," she says. The aerials and abstracts featured in her artwork include multiple color combinations, and with the addition of collage techniques and the layering that is inherent in the art form, she aspires to create juxtapositions and perceptual challenges. Using colors, shapes, layers and textures, this series combines her signature style with her love of the land and sea.

Both gallery receptions are open to the public, free of charge. The Marion Art Center is located at 80 Pleasant Street (at the corner of Main & Pleasant Streets) in Marion, MA, and is a nonprofit charitable organization. Regular gallery hours are Tuesday through Friday from 1:00 - 5:00 pm and Saturday from 10:00 am - 2:00 pm. For more information, call 508-748-1266.

viruses. In July of 2016, the Cape Cod Times reported a new potentially serious tick-borne illness known as Powassan virus. "It adds a new dimension," Dapsis has been quoted as saying. "Instead of four tick-borne illnesses with deer ticks, now we have five."

New research indicates that the virus has spread among deer ticks in several Cape towns. There were nine cases of Powassan virus among residents of Barnstable, Essex, Middlesex and Norfolk counties from 2013 to 2015, according to the Cape Cod Times. All of the individuals were ill enough to be hospitalized.

Other tick-borne illnesses are Lyme disease, miyamotoi, babesiosis and anaplasmosis. In rare cases, Lyme carditis, babesiosis and anaplasmosis infections have turned deadly. Powassan differs from these other tick-borne infections in that it is a virus rather than a bacterial illness. "It's more like a cousin to West Nile virus," say the experts.

Marion gardeners and others interested in learning about ticks are invited to this informative program. For more information, check the Marion Garden Group website at mariongardengroup.com or join us on February 7.

Friends Academy Open House

Friends Academy, located at 1088 Tucker Road in North Dartmouth, MA, will hold an Open House on Sunday, February 12, from 1:00 - 3:00 pm. Families who are interested in learning more about the school's programs, including the Sally Borden Program for children with language-based learning differences, are invited to tour the school with student guides, visit classrooms, and speak with teachers, alums and current and past parents.

At 1:30 pm, parents and their students are invited to "be" a Middle School student at Friends. In twenty minute intervals, parents will experience classes in social studies, English and Latin classes. At 2:30 pm, the event will culminate with a presentation called "The Middle Schoolers' Mind."

Friends Academy serves students from Early Childhood through Grade 8. The event is designed to allow families to explore Friends Academy in depth and to better understand the value of the dynamic and meaningful educational experience the school provides children in the South Coast, Cape Cod, and Rhode Island areas.

The Sally Borden Program offers a unique educational opportunity for children with language-based learning differences, including difficulty acquiring reading, spelling, written expression, math, organizational and/or study skills due to dyslexia or a specific learning disability. An informational session about The Sally Borden School will be held at 2:30 pm.

Founded in 1810, Friends Academy is an independent, nonprofit day school, serving boys and

Animal Advice

Jay Gould, DVM

My dog spends lots of time chewing and licking his feet. What does this mean?

Your dog is showing signs of allergies. People with allergies tend to cough and sneeze. Dogs will lick, chew and rub.

What can my dog be allergic to and what should I do?

Your dog can be allergic to food, fleas, articles that he comes into contact with such as wool rugs, all pollen, mold, and dust that affects people. Try to keep a log of your dog's itchiness to determine if it happens all year round or if it is seasonal. Food allergies tend to be seasonal. Talk to you veterinarian about diet changes, medications and allergy testing to determine what may be the most helpful for your pet.

You can contact Dr. Gould at 508-758-6400 or visit our website at MattapoisettAH.com
